Suzi Ragsdale

Nashville native, Suzi Ragsdale virtually cut her teeth in the recording studio. Her dad a singer/songwriter as well, she grew up surrounded by music. At age 5, she sang with the kiddie chorus on her father Ray Stevens' Grammy Award winning smash, "Everything Is Beautiful". At 10, she began recording children's albums and writing her own songs... by 13, she was singing other writers' demos... & by 17 singing in local clubs.

"Ms. Ragsdale's bluesy vocals work a territory that overlaps folk-rock, pop and laid-back jazz."
Barry Mazor, The Wall Street Journal

"Suzi Ragsdale has a talent for blending craftsmanship with confession... most noteworthy is the uncommon honesty Ragsdale shows in her lyrics. There's a spirit of healing and renewal running through these songs ... grown-up reflections on love and loss, told with a mixture of humor, sorrow and acceptance."
Barry Alfonso, iTunes review

"The whole thing just seems to drive with a force that is so purely honest."
PopMatters

"...pieces of Americana rich in nuance and narrative ... a singer-poetess of the heart and sky."
Mark S. Tucker, Folk & Acoustic Music Exchange
